Analogy Approach

Types of relationship that may exist between pair of words:

1. Synonym/Antonym:

In this type of analogy, the two words of a given pair will be either synonyms or antonyms.

Exemplary: Ire-Reprehensible

A. outstanding: reproachable

B. hackneyed: uncommon

C. charlatan: genuine

D. castigate: laud

E. obsequious: subservient

Both exemplary and Ire-reprehensible (meaning blameless) are synonyms. The words obsequious and subservient (meaning servile) are also synonyms. The remaining answer choices form an antonym pair. Hence answer is E.

2. Part/Whole:

In these analogies, one word of a pair will be a part of the other word of the pair.

e.g. Musician: Orchestra::Player: Team → Musician is a part of Orchestra as Player is a part of a team.

3. Member/Class:

The bridge here is “X is a type of/kind of Y” e.g. Apple: Fruit::Trowel: Tool → An apple is a kind of fruit as trowel is a kind of tool.

4. Effect/Cause:

In this type, one word in the pair is the cause, and the other is the effect. That means that one word is a result, action or an incidence that the other word creates.

e.g. Earthquake: Tsunami::Negligence: Accident → The bridge here is “X causes Y” or “X is the result of Y.”

5. Varying degrees of a quantity or quality

The one word of a given pair may be better/worse/stronger/weaker form of the other pair of a given word.

Noise: Din

A. utterance: voice

B. celebration: revelry

C. motion: traction

D. sanity: treatment

E. remonstrance: sin

This analogy is based on degree. Din is a great noise and revelry is great celebration. Utterance is just a kind of noise. The other choices do not fit in. Hence the answer is B.

6. Definition/Evidence:

The bridge in this type of analogy is “X is a defining characteristic of Y.”

Cache: Hide

A. forgiveness: punish

B. stockpile: accumulate

C. testimony: falsify

D. treasure: money

E. intimation: fear

Here Cache can be either a verb or a noun. Since the first word of the options is noun so cache is used here as noun. Cache as a noun means a hidden place that is used to store something. So we can say that hide is a defining characteristic of Cache. Similarly to accumulate is a defining characteristic of stockpile.

7. Purpose/Function:

One word of the pair defines the function of the other word of a pair.

Scythe: Reaping

A. shears: cutting

B. crops: planting

C. lights: reading

D. screws: turning

E. saws: gluing

A scythe is a tool used for reaping. Similarly, shears are used for cutting.

Technique: How do you solve an analogy?

STEP 01: Identify the relationship between the given pair of words.

STEP 02: The sentence forming the relationship should be neither too general nor too vague. Look for a deeper relationship if the relationship formed does not fit into any of the given choices or fits into more than one choice. Bat: Cricket

A. board: chess

B. ball: soccer

C. team: basketball

D. racket: badminton

E. racket: tennis

The bat is used to play cricket. If we use this bridge, it eliminates only the choice C. Let's look for a more subtle relationship between the given pair of words. The bridge is: A bat is used to strike a ball in cricket. Also a racket is used to strike a ball in tennis. So E is the correct choice.

STEP 03: Check for the parts of speech of the given words. It may help you in arriving at the right answer for e.g. if the given pair is noun: verb the answer will also be noun: verb pair. The part of speech of both the given pair and the answer will always be the same.

STEP 04: The order of the pair of words is important. The answer choices should form the same relationship as that of given pair in the same order. Their order can't be changed.
